

Netgem and Outright Games Join Forces to Bring Iconic Family Franchises to PLEIO

Paris, France – June 8, 2026 –

Netgem today announced a strategic partnership with Outright Games, one of the leading publishers of licensed video games, further strengthening the content offering across its gaming services.

Through the collaboration, a selection of major titles will progressively launch on Netgem's gaming platforms worldwide, including SpongeBob SquarePants: Patrick's Adventure, Ice Age: Scrat's Nutty Adventure, DC Justice League: Cosmic Chaos, Hotel Transylvania 3: Monsters Overboard, Barbie: Horse Adventures, NBA Bounce, and many more.

Built around globally recognised entertainment franchises enjoyed by billions of fans, these titles further expand Netgem's appeal to family audiences. Their strong cultural recognition and broad cross-generational appeal make them ideal experiences for accessible, shared gaming on the biggest screen in the home.

The partnership reflects Netgem's ambition to accelerate the growth of its gaming services through premium licensed content and to further establish its platform as a leading destination for accessible cloud gaming entertainment.

The first titles have already launched in the UK, with additional markets to follow in the coming months. PLEIO, Netgem's entertainment platform combining TV, FAST channels, streaming services and cloud gaming, enhanced by AI-powered discovery and recommendations, enables customers to instantly access and play the games directly on their TV, with no installation or dedicated hardware required.

Mathias Hautefort, Netgem Group CEO, states:

"We are very pleased to further increase the value of our WATCH/STREAM/PLAY services for our customers with the addition of the fantastic portfolio from Outright Games. With amazing TV and cinema franchises, titles such as "SpongeBob" or "Ice Age" truly embody our strategy of offering the best entertainment in one place: from a TV series to a movie to a game, Netgem brings it all together, delivering choice, simplicity, and value to our Operator distribution partners."

Robin Flodin, CEO of Outright Games Group, adds:

"At Outright Games, we're thrilled to partner with Netgem to bring our catalog to PLEIO.

Our games, inspired by some of the world's most beloved entertainment brands, are a natural fit alongside premium TV content in a seamless home entertainment experience.

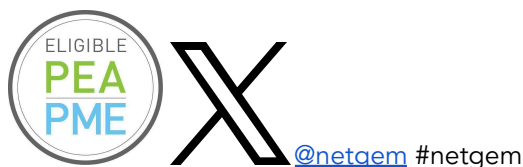

This partnership expands the reach of our titles, making them instantly accessible to family audiences directly on the biggest screen in the home."
